Description

Julian Brosius was born in 1917 and died in 2004. Painter of Parisian cityscapes. St-Séverin church is located in the 5th arrondissement of Paris, in the heart of the Latin Quarter. It is a fine example of flamboyant Gothic architecture. Its bell tower dates back to the 13th century. Here, the artist depicts the lively Rue St-Séverin, with its many passers-by bringing the picture to life. It is enhanced by a handsome Montparnasse frame. It measures 36cm X 31cm. Packing, shipping and insurance by Colissimo suivi are EUR40 for France, EUR50 for Europe. For the rest of the world, please contact me.
