Timeless Elegance: The Charm of the Grand Tour in Your Home
In the world of antiques, it is rare to encounter objects that blend such historical craftsmanship with such refined intimacy. This stunning small travel frame, crafted in Italy in 1790, is a prime opportunity for discerning collectors. Created using the complex lost-wax casting technique and enhanced by mercurial gilding, this piece stands out for its exceptional detail. The floral festoons and garlands anticipate the precision and grace of the Napoleonic era. Measuring h. 16 cm by w. 14 cm, it was designed to hold cherished memories during the long journeys of the era, and it still retains that aura of discreet luxury today.
