Description

The Rigor of Design: The Rationalist Allure of the 1930s For lovers of clean lines and architectural design, this stunning rationalist column lamp represents an unmissable opportunity among my current offerings. Crafted in Italy in 1930, this cast bronze creation perfectly embodies the aesthetic of Rationalism: an impeccable balance between material strength and geometric purity. The column structure, both imposing and refined, reaches a height of 55 cm, giving the object an extraordinary presence. The touch of absolute exclusivity is provided by the cylindrical lampshade (H. 25 x 20 cm) in a glossy finish, featuring an architectural building plan. This unique detail not only celebrates the inseparable link between lighting and architecture typical of the era but also transforms the lamp
