Description

An important oil on canvas signed L. Bazzaro, dating to the artist's most significant period. The painting dates back to the years when Leonardo Bazzaro stayed in Chioggia (1883-1896), a particularly successful and refined phase of his career. During this period, the artist developed a painting style of great expressive power, characterized by a rich, textured impasto, energetic and deep brushstrokes, and vibrant use of light--elements typical of the Lombard Scapigliatura sensibility of the late 19th century. The work stands out for its pictorial quality and the intensity of the light, which constructs the forms with decisiveness and immediacy, giving the scene a strong visual impact. On the back is an old label bearing a small print of Venice and the inscription: "La pesca
