Description

Mahogany and gilded brass sideboard on wheels. Opening with glazed side flaps onto a display compartment encircled by a curved glass case with metal uprights. The upper top is glazed and the lower spacer table is in veneer, encircled by a fine tubular metal gallery, the whole resting on four castors. Height 79cm. Early 20th century work. Rockhausen was founded in 1866 by Carl Ernst Rockhausen, who opened a joinery workshop in Waldheim (Saxony). Quality and style soon made his company internationally renowned. By the 1930s, the company held some 450 patents.
