Description

Pair of fauteuils à la Reine - Louis XV style - Carved walnut - French work, 19th century
Elegant pair of molded and carved walnut fauteuils à la Reine, French work in the Louis XV style, probably Parisian, dating from the 19th century. The silhouette features a particularly refined design, emblematic of the rocaille style. The armrests develop a characteristic "whiplash" movement, lending suppleness and elegance to the whole. The slightly recessed cuffs reinforce this dynamic and testify to masterful design. The richly scrolled belt enlivens the seat with a harmonious interplay of curves and counter-curves. It rests on four finely worked cambered legs, ending in small, delicately shaped hooves. The backrest, with its Queen Anne's style, is a perfect complement to the seat. The Queen-style backrest, with its balanced proportions, is embellished at the top with a delicate carved motif in the shape of a florette, enhanced with gold leaf. The armchairs have been fully restored and refinished, with upholstery and covering in Genoa velvet, bringing comfort and elegance. Sound and solid structure. An elegant and decorative pair, ideal for a classic interior or as a contrast in a contemporary setting.
