His career alternates moments as a designer with moments in which he dedicates himself completely to photography.

In 1968 he opened his own studio and factory in Tivoli which remained active only until 1968.

Many of his furnishings are exhibited at the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

The sideboard is original from the 1970s and is in excellent condition, with slight signs of wear on the top visible in the photos.

The brasses will be polished upon request.

The matching low table is also available in our shop.
