Description

Oil on cardboard. Hand-signed. In Schubert's world, spring blossoms in La Belle Meunière like a wounded idyll, where flowers are not mere elements of the landscape, but confidants who gather the traveler's tears and hopes. This same romantic delicacy is found in the palette of Vives Maristany, whose petals seem painted with the echo of a lieder, capturing that luminous fragility that heralds renewal. Between music and canvas, the corollas become sighs of color that celebrate life with the melancholy of one who knows that beauty, like thawing, is as intense as it is ephemeral. Image dimensions unframed: 41 x 53 cm / 56 x 70 cm with custom frame.
