Description

Pair of glazed ceramic pitchers - 20th century work
Charming pair of glazed ceramic pitchers, with polychrome decoration in shades of brown, cream and celadon blue. Each piece features a globular body on a pedestal, a ringed neck surmounted by a flared spout, and a twisted handle, bringing a beautiful dynamic to the ensemble. The decoration, obtained by enamel drips, offers a marbled, cloudy effect typical of 20th-century artisanal production. These pitchers, originally both decorative and utilitarian, today make lovely decorative elements, perfect as garnish or vases. Dimensions: Height 30 cm - Diameter approx. 16 cm Era: 20th century Technique: fired ceramics, cast glazes Condition: good overall condition, slight traces of use
