

Bronze 19th Century

1 500 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Bronze

Description

Important 19th-century bronze bust of Melenas, King of Sparta, with black and gilded patina. He is depicted with his chin raised, giving him a proud appearance; his hair is thick and curly; he is wearing a helmet decorated with numerous mythological figures (centaur, lioness...). Highly meticulous execution with numerous details and a highly evocative expression of the character's personality. The sculpture rests on a square gilded bronze base. This bust was made after the antique, the marble original is kept in the Puckin Museum in Moscow. H: 42cm L: 22.5cm l: 17cm. Very good condition. Melenas is a character from Greek mythology, one of the heroes of the Trojan War. Married to Helen, daughter of Zeus and Leda, who was kidnapped by Paris, Prince of Troy, triggering the war between Greeks and

Dealer

Muriel Chouffot

Tableaux, objets de vitrine

Tel : 06 10 19 54 15

114, route du cognac

Gensac-la-Pallue 16130

Trojans.