Description

In the landscape of fine Italian antiques, few names evoke rationalist elegance and Milanese prestige like Piero Portalupi. Today, we present a great opportunity: a splendid and important pair of tables designed in 1930 for an aristocratic Milanese residence, now ready to grace your most exclusive interiors. These masterpieces embody the perfect balance between geometric rigor and material luxury. The multi-faceted base, which ends dramatically in a three-spoke design, is entirely covered in a refined inlay of various wood burls, offering unique shades and grains that catch the light from every angle. Providing stability and a touch of monumental austerity is the monolithic slate base, a technical and stylistic detail typical of the architectural mastery of the period. In perfect condition, the tables maintain
