Description

Extraordinary 1930's art deco glass panel probably depicting the terrestrial paradise. Over-sized 170X150x24cm, this sandblasted work in the thickness of the glass features a large number of animals in a luxuriant forest. In the center we distinguish Adam and Eve at the foot of the central tree of the panel surrounded by plants and animals. This is part of the great decoration that can dress a room by its mere presence. A soul and emotion emanates strongly from this work. This work is a masterpiece of glassmaking that is not signed but is automatically the work of a great. May be a commission around the World's Fair?
