Description

Oil on canvas signed by Alipio Pérez, an artist whose name is inseparable from Spanish bullfighting history. (Alipio Pérez-Tabernero Sanchón, real name) He was a very specific artist, because he didn't just paint bullfighters for artistic reasons. He came from one of Spain's most famous dynasties of fighting bull breeders. Alipio Pérez (20th century) brings an authenticity that salon painters lack. His toradors are not fashionable, but portraits of men of the trade. He excels in the rendering of "Trajes de Luces" (garments of light), with particular attention to the gold and silver embroidery that captures the light of the arena. His painting is vigorous, often with a strong contrast between sun and shadow. You can sense his perfect knowledge of
