Description

A curiosity from Venetia, this profusely carved alcove seat, high in plume with ochre-colored implication, is an easy-to-place "d'entre-deux" mirror with Baroque motifs from the mid-18th century. This Italian creation, made at the end of the 19th century, has a lot of charm and is luminous with its silver sheen of a mirror in good condition. It is typical of the ancestral know-how of the pieces sold to visitors to the beautiful city of the Doges; a solid wrought-iron ring allows it to be installed in complete safety; a decorative, high-quality piece that can be easily integrated into either an entrance hall or a living room; this piece is also well-preserved, a must for those nostalgic for Venice.
