Description

Italian sofa Soften Ammannati Vitelli 1970s leather 230 cmVintage Italian sofa model Soften, design Titina Ammannati and Giampiero Vitelli, production Rossi di Albizzate, 1970s, still with its label. This large three-seater in leather features a low, ample and enveloping line, with wide rounded armrests, a long cylindrical backrest and a particularly pleasant deep seat. The design is highly representative of the great Italian lounge furniture of the decade, in a spirit that is at once lounge-like, sculptural and highly decorative.The Soften model is a good illustration of the work of Titina Ammannati and Giampiero Vitelli, an important duo in Italian design, here in a search for generous comfort and supple volumes. The sofa's strength lies in the balance between monumentality and welcome: the masses are broad, continuous, without dryness, giving the whole a very Italian presence, warm and architectural. It's a piece of character, emblematic of 1970s interior design, which retains a real visual power today.Good used condition. The leather shows stains, traces, shades and marks of life visible in the photos, consistent with age and use. Please note: no holes observed. The seat is very comfortable. The whole is in good general condition and will benefit above all from being revived with a leather renovator to regain more unity and depth.Dimensions: 230 x 92 cm.
