Description

Round Walnut Table with Inlays - Central Italy, Early 19th Century

Elegant early 19th-century dining table from central Italy, crafted in solid walnut and enriched with refined maple, walnut, and ebony inlays.

The thick circular top features a delicate geometric decorative band running along the entire perimeter, while the center is adorned with a finely executed figure of Saint George.

The structure is supported by a substantial turned central column, resting on three sturdy carved and shaped legs, typical of early 19th-century Italian craftsmanship.

The original patina and gentle signs of age enhance the piece's authenticity and charm.
