Description

Prairie landscape with river and cowsBeautiful naturalistic landscape depicting a meadow with a stream running through it, in a peaceful, luminous atmosphere. In the foreground, the grasses and vegetation are treated with a free, vibrant touch, while a remarkably treated stream meanders through the heart of the composition. In the background, a few cows graze peacefully on the edge of a dense wood, under a slightly cloudy sky. The whole is distinguished by a fine mastery of light and a subtle palette of greens and blues, sensitively translating the variations of nature. The brushstrokes, visible and lively, bear witness to a technique close to late Impressionism.Axel Birkhammer was a German painter active at the turn of the twentieth century, renowned for his landscapes imbued with naturalness and poetry.
