Description

Rare and beautiful painting from the Atelier of the Artist Franklin Roudybush, presented in a generous and beautiful frame that deserves this landscape of the Drôme Provençale, luminous and rhythmic between the sky, the olive trees of the mountains and the soil yellowed by the sun, a highly interesting work by an artist whose influence was clearly the Master Van Gogh, all the expressiveness of this beautiful large canvas invites us to take a trip to the South of France, with the mountains of Ventoux and the Dentelles de Montmirail as our backdrop. It's all about the warm, stylized late-summer colors of this skillful, decorative work, where stylized olive trees contrast with yellow soil and the distant chain of the Dentelles de Montmirail in a bluish mist under a luminous sky punctuated by small clouds.
