Description

Pair of 19th century silver-plated bronze candelabras, remarkable for the finesse of their chasing and the richness of their decoration. Each piece features a tripod structure adorned with delicately worked foliage, scrolls and floral motifs, supporting several arms of light with finely gadrooned bobèches. The central shaft, fluted and slender, rests on a circular base adorned with relief motifs, offering a beautiful balance and refined decorative presence. The whole testifies to high quality goldsmithing skills, typical of 19th century decorative production. Dimensions: Height: 47 cm Width: 25 cm
