Description

Small Wellington chest of drawers in walnut veneer, English Victorian work, mid-19th century, circa 1840-1860. A fine English Wellington chest of drawers, circa 1840-1860, in the spirit of Gillows productions, veneered in figured walnut and appealing for the quality of its grain, the rarity of its compact size, and the preservation of its ingenious lateral locking mechanism. The piece opens at the front with seven drawers of varying sizes, fitted with their original turned wooden knobs. The drawers are flanked by a movable side pilaster fitted with a brass lock, forming a locking system for the whole, in accordance with the Wellington chest principle. The mechanism is in working order; however, the absence of the key prevents it from being locked. On both the front and sides, the
