Michel Cayla (b. 1944) work in chamotte clay mounted on Plexiglas and base also in chamotte clay. Buste de Héros Michel Cayla's ceramic work is part of a sensitive exploration of material and form. He develops work in which the clay, often chamotte, retains its roughness and raw strength, while playing on presentation on Plexiglas plates to add certain lightness to the work. His work also draws on the heritage of Greek and Roman antiquity, with busts, faces and mascarons with classical accents, revisited in contemporary writing. height: 40cm width: 20cm work signed on the back with the stamp "atelier Michel Cayla"
