Description

We present an elegant Italian antique round table dating back to the mid-19th century. The table features typical features of the Louis Philippe period.The round tabletop is embellished with a central inlay decoration, creating a highly refined effect. The tabletop is supported by a sturdy turned central leg supported by three curved feet. The distinctive feature of this beautiful antique table is the mechanism that allows the tabletop to be positioned vertically. This type of table is known in Italy as a "sailing table."This table is perfect for enhancing a living room or the centerpiece of an entryway. Furthermore, thanks to the ability to position the tabletop vertically, you can also use it in small rooms, where you can place it against the wall and use it open only when needed. When the tabletop is vertical, the
