Description

Ancient & elegant pair of polychrome ceramic vases from the Amphora manufacture. Bohemian production dating from the late 19th century. These vases feature a particularly original silhouette, with rounded belly and asymmetrical neck forming a fluid movement typical of the Art Nouveau style. The decoration features delicate stylized floral motifs in mauve and violet tones, evoking mistletoe branches. A wide, sinuous olive-green band, enhanced with light gold effects, structures the composition and accentuates the elegance of the forms. The finesse of the painted decoration testifies to the expertise of the Amphora workshops in Turn-Teplitz, renowned for their decorative creations of the late 19th century. Both pieces bear the Amphora mark on the reverse. 17.5cm high. Very good condition.
