Description

Charming and rare miniature cast-iron stove, dating from the late 19th century. This model, both decorative and functional, faithfully reproduces the large domestic stoves of the period, with very fine workmanship. It features a thick cast-iron structure, adorned with an elegant central rosette, and is equipped with four oven doors, an ashtray, as well as a top plate with cooking opening and utensil hook. The brass knobs provide a nice contrast with the black patina of the cast-iron. Complete model, in very good condition. Possible operation (originally intended for real use). Very fine decorative item: country house, cottage, showcase, collection. Unusual piece in this format and in this condition. Delivery in mainland France
