Description

Beautiful pair of Napoleon III-period perfume spray bottles, in cut crystal and bronze mount, including a richly gilded model. One of the bottles is distinguished by a finely chased gilded bronze mount, decorated with an imperial eagle surrounded by garlands and foliage, typical of the Second Empire style. This more elaborate piece forms the central element of the set. The second, more sober bottle features a metal mount decorated with classical friezes, forming a harmonious pair. Both bottles are in cut crystal with star-shaped bottoms and retain their antique piston mechanism, characteristic of late 19th-century vaporizers. Height: 10 cm.
