Description

Elegant late 19th-century drop-leaf table featuring a solid walnut base and a finely veneered burr walnut top. The shaped top highlights the rich and decorative grain pattern typical of the craftsmanship of the period, enhancing the warm tones of the wood. The slender, gracefully curved legs add lightness and balance to the structure, while the drop-leaf "book" opening mechanism allows the tabletop surface to be doubled, making it both practical and versatile. Ideal as a side table, occasional table, or refined accent piece. A timeless piece of furniture, perfectly suited to classic or eclectic interiors, and equally striking as a statement contrast in contemporary settings.
