Description

Spanish vargueño, circa 1700A vargueño (also called bargueño) is a traditional piece of Spanish Renaissance furniture. It is a secretary often with a flap that serves as a writing table. The interior usually features numerous small drawers and compartments. This example dates from around 1700. It is in exceptional, pure and magnificent condition. Almost entirely original. Only a few minor wood restorations have been carried out here and there. Very beautiful original back panel. The cabinet is made of solid walnut. Beautiful patina and color. It rests on a custom-made metal base dating from a later period (mid-twentieth century). Dimensions: W 127.5 x D 45 x H 161
