subtly lifted by slightly golden tones. In the 1970s, there was a genuine revival of interest in historic styles in interior design: a return to classic patterns, the use of modern industrial techniques and the democratization of textiles inspired by the great old manufactures. These curtains are fully in line with this trend, offering a beautiful alliance between decorative tradition and modern quality production. Linen, a lively, elegant material, lends the ensemble a natural fall and warm presence. Presented as a drop, these curtains reveal an elegant, structured fullness, a supple yet dense fall, as well as a natural enhancement of the pattern through the interplay of pleats. The curtains are available in a wide range of colors. A selvedge inscription on the reverse - "château Saint Ange grand teint meubles" - testifies to manufacture intended for quality furnishings, and emphasizes the use of "grand teint" dyeing, recognized for color fastness and durability. Ideal size for:- Large bay windows- Rooms with high ceilings- Theatrical settings or characterful interiors. Ideal for:- Classic or neoclassical living rooms- Chic country house- 70s vintage decor revisited. A decorative pair with classic charm revisited, ideal for sublimating an elegant interior, between tradition and modernity. ref 160426
