Description

France, circa 1700-1750 Pair of antique carved wood putti, retaining traces of original polychromy and gilding. Solid but in their original condition. Beautiful patina. They may once have had wings, which have now disappeared. There are a few old restorations on the ankles of one and one hand of the other, as well as partial missing fingers. A piece of the loincloth of one of them is missing, but not that noticeable. A lovely pair, with superb painted eyes. Dimensions: 40 x 29 cm (at largest side).
