Description

Charming landscape drawn in black stone, depicting a wooded scene enlivened by the presence of figures and animals at the edge of a body of water. The composition is organized around an overhanging path, punctuated by trees with finely crafted foliage, opening the view to a peaceful horizon.The delicate treatment of plant masses and the play of light testify to a fine mastery of the medium. The artist succeeds in recreating a gentle, slightly melancholy atmosphere, characteristic of 19th-century landscape taste.This drawing captivates with its balance, fine execution and serene atmosphere. It is a fine decorative work, representative of nineteenth-century graphic production.Presented in an antique molded wood frame with dark patina, with passe-partout, elegantly highlighting
