Description

Empire-style mirror dating from the early 19th century, featuring an elegant and well-proportioned architectural structure. Crafted in fruitwood, it is framed by ebonized side columns that enhance the reflective surface, adding depth and contrast.The upper section is decorated with an ornamental panel featuring classical motifs typical of the Empire style. The overall design recalls architectural forms with detached columns and antique-inspired details.A refined decorative piece, ideal for classic interiors or as a statement element in contemporary settings.
