Description

Louis XV style Venetian scriban secretary in walnut marquetry - 19th century
Elegant scriban secretary in walnut and fruitwood marquetry, opening with a flap and topped by a body with two glass doors. The decoration is richly ornamented with scroll and arabesque marquetry throughout the front, typical of the Louis XV taste. The three drawers in the lower section feature curved fronts and are fitted with bronze handles and key escutcheons. The flap reveals a compartmentalized interior, designed for writing and storage. The upper part is fitted with two antique mercury mirror doors, showing a beautiful patina and characteristic alterations. The arched pediment is embellished with carved and inlaid decoration, emphasizing the elegance of the ensemble. Epoque: 19th century Condition: Overall
