the 1970s, there was a real revival of interest in historic styles in interior design: a return to classic motifs, the use of modern industrial techniques and the democratization of textiles inspired by the great old manufactures. These curtains are fully in line with this trend, offering a beautiful alliance between decorative tradition and modern, high-quality production. Linen, a lively, elegant material, lends the ensemble a natural fall and a warm presence. Presented as a drop, these curtains reveal an elegant, structured fullness, a supple yet dense fall, as well as a natural enhancement of the pattern through the interplay of pleats. A selvedge inscription on the reverse - "château Saint Ange grand teint meubles" - testifies to manufacture intended for quality furnishings, and underlines the use of "grand teint" dyeing, recognized for color fastness and durability. Ideal format for:- Large bay windows- Rooms with high ceilings- Theatrical settings or characterful interiors Ideal for:- Classic or neoclassical living room- Chic country house- Revisited 70s vintage decor A decorative pair with revisited classic charm, ideal for sublimating an elegant interior, between tradition and modernityref 160426
