Description

Dating from the 1940s, this beautiful, heavy brooch features two lapel clips, entirely set with highly sparkling rhinestones, that can be removed and attached to a mount to transform into a single brooch. SILVER mark on the clips and mount. Antique-style lever safety clasp, perfectly functional. Clip springs are firm. At the time of the Second World War, the metals used in costume jewelry were reserved for armaments, so silver was used during this period to continue making affordable, fashionable jewelry. FIRST CONDITION, 20th century circa 1940. Dimensions 5.8cm x 2.1cmWeight 20g
