Description

An elegant pair of Louis XVI candelabra from the late 18th century, of refined French craftsmanship. Crafted from fine white marble, they are embellished with rich applications of finely chiseled and mercury-gilded bronze, which highlight their neoclassical style. The structure features a slender, harmonious column resting on a circular base decorated with plant motifs and beaded details. The upper section is characterized by a refined candle holder, while the central body is adorned with elegant decorative bronze figures, joined by festoons and chains that lend movement and lightness to the whole. The balance of proportions, the quality of the materials, and the attention to detail make these candelabra a perfect example of Louis XVI aesthetics, ideal for enhancing classic interiors and high-end
