Description

Beautiful glazed ceramic wall cross, created in the Brutalist taste by Belgian ceramist André Bayer in the 1960s. This piece features material work characteristic of the Brutalist aesthetic, with a marked relief and deliberately irregular texture, highlighting the depth of the glaze. The sober, natural shades underline the sculptural character of the object, both decorative and spiritual. A work typical of the revival of post-war ceramics in Belgium. The sober, natural shades underline the sculptural character of the object, which is both decorative and spiritual. Beautiful collectible or decorative object, ideal for a vintage, modernist or wabi-sabi interior.
