

Facing Escutcheon Or Rondache, In Finished Cast Iron, 16th Century

800 EUR

Signature : Anonyme

Period : 16th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Cast iron

Diameter : 39 cm

Description

Here's a detailed and captivating presentation for your crest or facing rondache, an object of art and history that's sure to appeal to lovers of antiques and unique pieces. This finely crafted cast-iron rondache is a true historical treasure, dating back to the 16th century. It depicts an iconic scene from Roman antiquity: Julius Caesar receiving Pompey's head from the hands of Ptolemy, King of Egypt, in 48 BC. This pivotal moment in Roman history, fraught with symbolism and political tension, is beautifully immortalized in this bas-relief. The cast work is remarkable, with meticulous details that testify to the skill of craftsmen of the period. Every line, every expression, every decorative element is chiseled with a precision that compels admiration. The 35 cm diameter makes it an imposing piece, ideal for

Dealer

ABN Antiquités Brocante de Normandie

General antique dealer

Tel : 0638955430

Mobile : 0638955430

57 rue Victor Hugo

Rouen 76000

adorning a wall or a collection of historical objects. This type of rondache was often used as a facing element, to decorate armor, shields, or even the walls of noble residences. It symbolized power, victory and classical culture, recalling the great tales of Antiquity. To own such a piece is to treat yourself to a piece of history, a tangible link to the great figures and events that have shaped our world. Lovers of military art, Roman history, or simply beautiful antique coins will be won over by this rondache. Its state of preservation, despite the centuries that have passed, is remarkable, and its authenticity makes it a rare and sought-after collector's item. Whether you're an antiques enthusiast, an avid collector, or simply looking for a unique piece to sublimate your home, this rondache will find its place in your universe. Don't hesitate to add it to your collection or offer it as a gift to a history-loving loved one. This is a unique opportunity to own an object charged with meaning and beauty, which will still cross the centuries with elegance. You can follow me on my Instagram by following this link:

<https://www.instagram.com/patrick.boussougant/>

Back to the store: Online sale of antique objects and furniture, purchase in complete security ( )ATTENTION! For home deliveries made by our carriers, please don't hesitate to ask for a quote!

<https://abnantiquitesdenormandie.com>