Description

Beautiful Normandy wedding armoire, this exceptional piece of furniture is an authentic testament to 19th-century craftsmanship. Made from solid medium oak, this armoire embodies the sturdiness and timeless elegance of antique furniture. Every detail of its design reflects the meticulous workmanship and advanced aesthetic research typical of Norman craftsmen of the period. It is richly carved, making it a masterpiece for any art and history lover. The straight cornice, sober and refined, emphasizes the imposing silhouette of the cabinet. A large, carved bouquet of flowers immediately catches the eye in the upper center. This remarkably fine floral motif brings a touch of nature and delicacy to the ensemble. The rounded doors at the top are adorned with carved flowers, reinforcing the harmony between the various decorative elements. The cabinet's slightly protruding panels are a sign of generous thickness, guaranteeing both solidity and prestige. Each door is surrounded by a beaded decoration, adding subtle elegance to the structure. The central part of the cabinet is particularly striking. It features a crosspiece adorned with an oval-shaped cartouche decoration. Within this cartouche, flowers and doves are finely carved, often symbolizing love and peace, themes dear to wedding cabinets. This artistic detail lends this piece of furniture an almost poetic dimension. The tie, the central element of the structure, is beautifully decorated with diamond patterns. This geometric choice adds a touch of modernity and dynamism, contrasting with the curves of the floral motifs. Gold-plated brass fittings, of impeccable quality, add a note of luxury and refinement. The lock, still functional, is accompanied by its original key, a rare and valuable detail for collectors. The shell-shaped front legs recall Baroque influences and add a touch of originality to the ensemble. Inside, the cabinet features three shelves, offering practical, well-thought-out storage space. The generous dimensions of this piece of furniture, with a height of 226 cm and a width of 130 cm, make it an imposing piece, ideal for sublimating an entrance hall, living room or bedroom. This Normandy wedding armoire is much more than just a piece of furniture. It's a work of art in its own right, steeped in history and symbolism. It will appeal to antique furniture enthusiasts, discerning collectors, or anyone looking for a unique and timeless piece to embellish their home.
