Description

An exquisite table from the Qing dynasty, dating from the mid-to-late 18th century, finely worked in elm (yumu) and retaining its original black lacquer, now enriched with a beautiful crackle. The piece is assembled using the traditional mortise and tenon technique, complemented by subtly hand-crafted curved spacers, testifying to the refinement of North Chinese craftsmanship. Dimensions: 230 × 89 × 78 cm. Exceptionally generous proportions allow it to serve elegantly as a dining table, while preserving the refined silhouette of a classic altar table. Bearing authentic marks of time and long use (see photos), this table offers a captivating blend of presence, patina and timeless 18th-century character.
