Description

An elegant antique Louis Philippe-style dresser, dating from the mid-19th century, finely veneered in fine walnut burl. The piece features a simple and balanced design, typical of the period, with three large drawers enhanced by the burl's refined symmetrical grain. A contoured top, solid sides, and slightly curved front legs are features that lend the piece solidity and harmony. Equipped with original locks, the dresser retains a warm period patina that enhances its authenticity and historical charm. The piece requires restoration. Upon the customer's request, the dresser can be delivered fully restored for EUR1,200, with restoration work carried out in accordance with traditional materials and techniques. Ideal for classic settings or as a statement piece in contemporary interiors.
