Description

This is a depiction of the archangel Saint Michael, following the models of Guido Reni. The angel, endowed with wings, is depicted as a young warrior in Roman-style armor, striking down the devil, Satan. The angel, as a representation of the celestial, appears light and airy, but also energetic and dynamic, while evil takes the form of a grotesque, almost caricature-like figure. It's a contrast between good and evil, light and darkness. .
