Early Native American Indian Moccasins

570 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Description

Native American Indian moccasins. An early pair being made from soft hide leather which is probably moose, showing light wear to the soles.
The fronts are intricately decorated in glass beadwork showing a flower pattern to each. Black velvet ankle turnovers which are trimmed with red cotton lace ties. The materials and construction suggest that these are quite early and would probably pre date 1860s.
