Description

This exquisite wooden statue of the Virgin and Child, dating from the early 18th century, testifies to the exceptional craftsmanship of the period and probably comes from Belgium. Admired for the finesse of its details and the emotion it exudes, the statue captures with remarkable skill and exceptional artistry the tender bond between the Virgin Mary and the Infant Jesus. Sculpted from precious wood, every detail of the figures is rendered with extreme meticulousness, from the softness of their expressions to the fluidity of their clothing.
