

Louis XV Style Ormolu Mantel Clock, Early 20th Century

2 300 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Gilt bronze

Length : 36 cm

Width : 9 cm

Height : 49 cm

Description

Beautiful French ormolu mantel clock, dating from the early 20th century and inspired by the refined aesthetics of the Louis XV style, in the spirit of the Rococo revival..This decorative piece features a rich sculptural composition enlivened by two young figures in a pastoral, romantic scene, surrounded by moving foliage and vine motifs symbolizing abundance and nature. The base is profusely adorned with openwork decoration and acanthus leaves, testifying to fine quality casting and extensive ornamental work..The white enamel dial with Roman numerals is framed by an elegant gilt bronze mounting. The clock is equipped with a traditional key winding mechanism, with two winding holes, typical of French clocks of this period. A true objet d'art.A true collector's item,

Dealer

Decor Cinquantenaire

Antiquités

Mobile : 00327423171

30 place Saint Pierre

Brussels 1040

this clock will bring charm, relief and refinement to a mantelpiece, console or classic interior. Details: Origin: France Era: early 20th century, circa 1900 Style: Louis XV / rococo revival Material: gilt bronze Type : mantel clock Mechanism : key winding, to be checked Condition: good old condition, with slight traces of use consistent with age Dimensions: 36 x 9 x 49 cm