Description

Tchi tchi rug from Chechnya, Caucasus.This piece belongs to the group of step-cross rugs, based on the Armenian tradition of early rugs.They are easily recognized by their floral border, which features oblique sticks separating stylized flowers.# Note the completeness and finesse of the border design, and the quality of the colors, despite the passage of time.The main colors of our model are: blue, red, white, brick and a very bright curry yellow, they represent a highly sought-after combination and an orderly distribution on each motif as well as for the borders.The field is intended to be blue-night and is occupied by numerous staircase cruciferous motifs, placed offset from the crosses formed by the field, making it a complex and skilful geometric play, in form and color.Each cross has
