Description

These chairs feature a walnut veneer structure with superb flamed veining, typical of the Art Deco taste, with a sober and refined geometric construction in the taste of Maison Dominique. The wide armrests and stepped legs accentuate their modernist silhouette. The seats have been upholstered in a mottled skin-like covering, offering a remarkable contrast with the warmth of the wood and bringing a highly decorative presence to the ensemble. The ensemble evokes the French productions of the 1930s. Strong pieces, as interesting in decoration as in collection, ideal as occasional armchairs, a pair of lounge chairs or in a sophisticated eclectic interior. Epoque : circa 1930 Style: Art Deco Materials: walnut veneer, wooden structure, upholstered seats Condition: very good overall
