Description

Bar globe opening on tripod base - 20th century - circa 1970
Elegant bar globe mounted on a turned wood tripod base, combining decorative aesthetics and functionality. The sphere, richly illustrated in warm ochre and sepia tones, features old-style cartography embellished with decorative motifs and inscriptions in the taste of antique globes. The equatorial circle is adorned with representations of the signs of the zodiac and the months, bringing additional charm to the ensemble. The graduated meridian allows smooth handling of the globe. The top section opens in two to reveal an interior storage space for glasses and bottles. An integrated bottom tray completes the set, offering additional storage capacity. The wooden base, with three curved legs, ensures stability and elegance. Dimensions: Height: 116
