Description

Here's a woman leaning on a piano reading in a bourgeois interior, this oil is typical of Jean-Laurent Challié (1880-1943). The work is well mastered. The canvas is presented voluntarily unrestored, unprepared, we point out a small lack of paint in the lower left. Jean-Laurent Challié, real name Jean Laurent Buffet, initially a post-impressionist, he had a short Fauve period. He then fully and truly realized himself in an intimate style of painting in which he demonstrated controlled hypersensitivity. He regularly exhibited alongside Picasso, Bonnard, Vallotton and Valtat. As early as 1909, at the Salon d'Automne, his flower paintings were noticed. Our photos allow you to appreciate the quality of the work. For condition, please detail the photos. Feel free to zoom. The photos are an
