Description

Important Louis XV period cabinet in richly molded and carved solid walnut, 18th-century work. It features an elegant front with two paneled doors, adorned with scalloped moldings and carved motifs, including central rosettes and moving frames, characteristic of the Louis XV style. The upper crosspiece is decorated with a carved shell motif, an emblematic element of the period. The rounded jambs and overhanging molded cornice give the cabinet a beautiful presence and high aesthetic quality. The interior, entirely in antique wood, offers a beautiful storage space with shelf and rod, preserved in its original condition. The bottom is made of old boards with wide grain, testifying to traditional workmanship. Features Era: 18th century Origin: French work Wood: Solid walnut Decor: Carved
