Description

Empire-period walnut chest of drawers with detached columns - early 19th century Beautiful solid walnut chest of drawers opening at the front with three wide drawers, flanked by detached columns adorned with bronze rings, characteristic of the Empire style (circa 1810). The top features a beautiful patina and warm shades of walnut. The drawers are embellished with chased bronze handles. The columned uprights give the ensemble an architectural elegance typical of the Empire. The interior and rear confirm an earlier construction, with a more rustic wooden frame. Dimensions: Height: 102 cm Length: 137 cm Depth: 68 cm Era: Empire, early 19th century Materials: walnut Condition: Good overall used condition. To note: wear and patina of time on the top interior and back more rustic, consistent
